

GRAPHIC EVIDENCE OF FLORIDA'S HURRICANE

Yachts, houseboats, barges and all manner of shipping whipped into a tangled crazy hodge-podge of wreckage at the ends of the Flagler Street Bridge over the Miami river graphically telling far better than words of the fury of the West Indian hurricane which swept up the Florida coast leaving ruin in its wake and hundreds dead. This photo, the first received in Dixon was rushed over special telephoto wires and by airplane relays to The Telegraph by NEA Service.

WRECK OF TRANS-ATLANTIC NON-STOP AIRPLANE

Photo rushed to Dixon Evening Telegraph over telephoto wires by NEA service shows wreck of the giant Sikorsky Trans-Atlantic plane which crashed and burst into flames while taking off on the attempted non-stop New York to Paris flight yesterday morning. Two of the crew were killed and incinerated in the blaze which followed and the plane reduced to scrap. Capt. Rene Fonk and Lieut. Lawrence W. Curtin, U. S. N. escaped by jumping. A broken wheel on the extra landing gear, which smashed while the ship was racing down the runway, was the cause of the accident.

RESTORING ORDER OUT OF FLORIDA'S STORM CHAOS

GRAND JURORS RETURN FOUR INDICTMENTS

Report County Jail in Poor Condition and Ask Repairs

The members of the grand jury for the September term of the circuit court completed its duties yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and practically every member of the body expressed himself as favoring a new jail for Lee county, after the regular tour of investigation of that part of the county's property. It was rumored that the body deliberated at some length upon the advisability of injecting a recommendation in their findings to this effect, but decided that this action would not expedite matters and that the board of supervisors is the proper body to act. Only necessary repairs were recommended.

Many of the members of the grand jury looked into the interior of the county jail for the first time, and as a body deplored the building when it was compared with other property belonging to the county. The recommendation of the grand jury with reference to the jail condition, was as follows:

Concerning Jail.
"We find the county jail to be generally in a poor condition and poorly ventilated. We respectfully recommend that the down spouting on the west side of the building be repaired and that the walls on the west side of the building be pointed up and arrangements made to take care of the water on the driveway south of the county jail building.
"We find that Sheriff Elliott C. Risley is keeping the condition of the jail as good as possible under the existing conditions. We also find that the prisoners are well taken care of and properly provided for."

Four True Bills.
The grand jury returned but four indictments following their day and a half of investigation as follows:
Francis Selover, Amboy, rape, Bond $3,000.
Roland Blankenship, Amboy, larceny.
Lorton B. Bowman, Chicago, drawing check to defraud.
George Shugars, Dixon, drawing check to defraud and forgery.
Ben Fint of Amboy was foreman of the body and submitted the final report to Judge Harry S. Heer yesterday.

Former Dixon Folks Lost All Their Furniture

Probably the first descriptive word to be received from Miami, Fla., by Dixonites from relatives and friends, was contained in a letter received by Mrs. Grace Mason, 522 Peoria avenue, from Mrs. and Mrs. W. B. Casey. Mrs. Casey is a sister of Mrs. Mason and writing of their experiences, stated that the roof was blown from their home, the windows shattered, the interior completely ruined and the furniture demolished. Their automobile was completely wrecked. Mr. and Mrs. Casey escaped injury and at the time of the writing of the brief note, stated that they were housed with 800 other persons in a school building. Mr. and Mrs. Casey were former residents of Dixon and visited here this summer. They went to Miami a month ago to make their home during the winter months.

Miss Helen Rounds this morning received word of the safety of Misses Lola Kelley and Julia Harris, formerly of the Dixon office of the state highway department. The young ladies are now living in Miami.

Robert Sanford received a telegram this afternoon from Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smiley, former Dixonites, who are located in Clearwater, Fla., stating that they were well and uninjured from the effects of the storm.

61,524 Bottles Booze Destroyed at Morrison

Deputy United States Marshals are in Morrison today for the rest of the week to superintend the destruction of 61,527 cases of alcohol, which has been reposing peacefully in the Whiteside county jail since the raid on the James Riley farm near Fulton two years ago.

Twelve men and four trucks are being employed to move the liquor from the jail to an old stone quarry where each of the 61,524 bottles will be broken and individually drained, and it is believed the work will take the rest of the week.

WOMAN ACCEPTS POSITION IN FACTORY; DEKALB MAN TOOK POISON WHEN WIFE LEFT HOME

DeKalb, Sept. 22—Domestic differences brought to a climax by his wife's acceptance of a position in a local factory, caused James Cook, 25-year-old electrician, to attempt suicide Tuesday morning.

He is said to be in a very critical condition in Glidden hospital as a result of swallowing a large quantity of poison.

Police learned from friends that Cook and his wife had been quar-

WAUKEGAN BANK CLOSED BY ILL. EXAMINER TODAY

"Frozen Loans" Said to Have Embarrassed Institution

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 22—(AP)—The Security Savings Bank, the second oldest bank in Waukegan, was closed today by state bank examiners for adjustment.

The examiners were called in by J. A. Miller, attorney and one of the principal stockholders, who declared that after he bought his stock in the institution, he discovered many frozen loans unsecured, some made as long as fifteen years ago, and which could not be collected, but he expected the bank to pay depositors dollar for dollar with very little loss if any to stockholders.

On Sept. 4, the bank's report to the State Auditor showed total resources of $3,483,878 and real estate loans secured by collateral and unsecured loans of $2,695,757.

The bank is solvent, Miller said, but may take some time to adjust its difficulties.

The bank was controlled until his death eight months ago by Theodore Durst, former mayor of Waukegan, who for many years had been its president.

Has Little Left

Although he was reputed to have been a wealthy man, his estate now in process of probate is being liquidated by sale of realty holdings to pay claims with a prospect of leaving little net estate.

The bank's business had grown so rapidly, as the city of Waukegan expanded, that the New Security Bank building, a seven story structure, now is being constructed.

Two years ago Miller and others bought into the bank but the attorney said he had no knowledge of the situation until the information gradually became known to the directors. At the time the new interests entered

HUMAN SIDE OF PRESIDENT SHOWN IN INTERVIEW WITH A. P. WRITER

Coolidge Talks Informally With Bruce Barton—Thinks Opportunities for Young People are Better Than Ever—Everyone Should Be Married, He Says

(On his last day in the woods the President sat down with Bruce Barton, a personal friend, and chatted informally, answering some of the questions which are often in the mind of his fellow citizens and which they would like to ask him if they could. The notes of his talk proved to be such an interesting revelation of the human side of the Chief Executive that his visitor prevailed upon him to depart from precedent in this single instance and allow himself to be quoted to the American people directly.)

The desks and chairs and carpets had all gone, the telegraph instruments were being taken away and the little frame house which had been the headquarters of the U. S. Government was ready for its return to private life. The President sat in one of those green wicker rocking chairs that are on the porches of all summer cottages; his secretary sat on a kitchen chair, which after his brief hour of glory was about to go back to humbler things. I sat on the floor.

"You have been heard by more Americans than any other President," he said.

ed the capital stock was increased from $50,000 to $250,000.

Only a week ago state employees audited the books of the bank and complimented the management.

Seek Drug and Money

Thieves in Sycamore
Sycamore, Sept. 22—Authorities today sought a description of two itinerant men who looted the office safe of Dr. George W. Nesbitt here Sunday night and escaped with 500 grains of morphine and $150 in cash.

A roundup of nine tramps yielded the information that two of their associates had left for the northern part of the state Sunday night.

The two men are believed to have been the same men who Saturday called on Dr. Nesbitt in an attempt to buy morphine. The physician refused to sell the narcotic to them.

SEEK MISSING PATIENTS

The police were asked to assist in the search for three male patients who escaped from the Dixon state hospital last evening at 5 o'clock. William Wege, Daniel Sinner and Leon Lyons were the patients who took leave.

thanks to the radio," I said. "But only a few will ever see you. I sometimes think you would be wonderful if every citizen had a chance to sit down for a few minutes with his President, like we are sitting here. They would ask a lot of questions."

Asks Human Questions
"What sort of questions?" the President asked.

"Not political questions," I answered. "They aren't half so much interested in politics as Washington thinks they are. But they are enormously interested in you and Mrs. Coolidge. They would ask very human questions—friendly, but curious and terribly frank."

"What sort of questions?" he repeated.

"Well, for one thing every single citizen would want to know 'why haven't you come out to see us in our town?'"

The President pushed his hat back a little and settled himself into the old green rocker. From that time on I interrupted only to contribute additional questions. He did the rest and he seemed to be having a real good time.

FARMER CAUGHT BETWEEN AUTOS MORTALLY HURT

Orin M. Darnell, Rock Falls, Victim of an Unusual Mishap

Orin M. Darnell, aged 33, a farmer residing seven miles south of Rock Falls, passed away at the Sterling public hospital about 10:30 o'clock Monday from shock and injuries received when struck by an automobile south of Rock Falls about 7:30 o'clock the same evening.

A coroner's jury, which heard the evidence this morning, returned an open verdict of accidental death, the result of shock and loss of blood.

Mr. Darnell had been hauling sweet corn to the Paver Canning company in Sterling all day. He was returning home when a short distance south of Rock Falls the motor of his truck stopped. M. S. Holler, who resides south on the Golden road, hooked onto Mr. Darnell's truck and towed him for a short distance, pulling the truck to the side of the road in order that Mr. Darnell could see if he had any gasoline.

As Mr. Darnell was standing beside the truck removing the cushion from the seat to investigate his gas supply, a car driven by Donald Glassburn of Tampico approached from the north and evidently the young driver did not see Mr. Darnell or the truck at the side of the road and crashed into the truck, pinning Mr. Darnell between them.

Legs Badly Crushed

Mr. Darnell's legs were badly crushed, there being compound fractures in the bones of both legs. He also sustained internal injuries. The front end of Mr. Glassburn's car was wrecked so he ran to the nearest farm house, called a physician and the ambulance. The injured man was rushed to the Sterling public hospital in the ambulance and everything possible was done to save his life. Owing to the nature of his injuries he had

Florida Comptroller Indicted in Bank Case

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 22—(AP)—Ernest Amos, state comptroller, was indicted by a Palm Beach county grand jury today on a charge that he failed to close a West Palm Beach bank which he knew was insolvent. Six other banking officials of West Palm Beach are included in the true bills.

PROPERTY OWNERS WILL GET BIG REBATE ON ASSESSMENTS FOR WEST END IMPROVEMENT

Property owners coming under local improvement ordinance, No. 222, which covers the extensive paving project in the west end of the city, will receive a 25 per cent rebate upon their original assessments. This fact developed at last evening's meeting of the board of local improvements of the city council when the final estimate of the work under the ordinance was presented and passed.

Storm Relief Fund Totalled $67 This Noon

Contributions to The Evening Telegraph fund for the relief of storm sufferers in Florida, announcement of which was made in last evening's issue, had reached the total of $67 at noon today. This fund is in addition to that which is being accumulated in the various banks of the county, all of which are receiving subscriptions for the Lee Co. Red Cross fund for the same purpose. Contributions should be made early in order that the maximum amount of good can be done in the storm-stricken area. Contributions to The Telegraph fund at noon today were:

Evening Telegraph	$10.00
A. P. Armington	10.00
Alfred Leland	10.00
Mrs. Eleanor B. Edwards	10.00
S. P. Young	5.00

After arriving at the hospital, despite all efforts on the part of the attending physician and nurses, the injured man continued to grow weaker until the end came about 10:30 o'clock.

Associated Press First to Resume Miami Wire Lines

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 22—(AP)—Leased wire communication with Miami was restored at 7:40 o'clock this morning when the Miami News office was cut into The Associated Press Florida circuit. This was the first direct communication with Miami since last Saturday.

The injured in Hollywood, Miami suburb, have been ordered removed to points north of the city and persons unable to aid in the relief and rehabilitation, have been instructed to leave, according to information brought to West Palm Beach last night by Dr. W. R. Redden, national director of the American Red Cross medical service.

Dr. Redden estimated the seriously injured at 1,400.

He found 1,350 patients in Miami hospitals and estimated that the total

RED CROSS IS IN CHARGE OF RELIEF LABOR

Death List Likely to be Over 400 Late Reports Show

BULLETIN.
Miami, Fla., Sept. 22—(AP)—Miami appealed today to the American people for funds to aid in its rehabilitation after the disastrous hurricane of last Saturday.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The hurricane-swept southern communities, facing a death list of upwards of 400 persons, 4,000 or more injured and property damage which will amount to $50,000,000 or more, centered their efforts entirely today on bringing a degree of order which would permit an accurate accounting of the havoc wrought by the disaster.

The Miami area, hardest hit of all, was going about work of rehabilitation, caring for the injured and seeking out the dead in a systematic manner.

The Red Cross and other relief agencies were on hand in full force with troops on guard and military rule in force in many places.

INDIAN SUMMER

(Written for The Christian Science Monitor)
Content with her toiling
That stayed not, day nor night,
Finished with her harvest,
All safe from frost or blight,
Clad in richest raiment,
Gown, and cap, and shoon,
Nature now is dreaming
Through the golden afternoon.

Nature now is dreaming—
And smiling in her dreams!
The word has reached the woodland,
And the little silver streams:
The trees are whispering softly,
The streams are murmuring low—
With never sound of ripple
On the pebbles as they flow.

Every sound that pulses
Through the veiling violet haze
Comes all hushed, and hesitant;
The little breeze that plays
Among the gold and scarlet
Of leaves that drifted lie
Makes but a faintest rustling—
And no one wonders why;

For Nature now is dreaming.
Is it of harvest stored
In barn, and bin, and cellar,
A proud and priceless hoard?
No, no! It is of Springtime—
Buds and shower-bright gleams,
That Nature now is dreaming,
And smiling in her dreams!
—Minnie Leona Upton.

Announcement Party, Miss Mabel Griesie

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Mabel Griesie of Dixon and Carl Baker of Monroe Center, Ill., was happily announced at a pretty party given Tuesday evening by the mother of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Anna Griesie, at her home, 505 Galena avenue, twelve young ladies being the guests.

The house was very prettily decorated in yellow and white, flowers, streamers, table decorations and the like being in those colors; the favors were yellow satin bags, containing black cats, on which were inscribed the names of the nuptial couple-to-be.

The evening was happily spent at hearts, first prize being won by Miss Hope May, and the consolation award going to Miss Alice Luckey of Ashton. It was a delightful evening for the guests, all of whom extended best wishes to Miss Griesie on her approaching marriage.

MISS HAZEL WALLACE HOSTESS MONDAY EVENING

Miss Hazel Wallace had as her guests at a 6 o'clock dinner Monday evening the members of the Nu Beta Kl. The house was tastefully decorated in pink and white garden flowers, the occasion being the hostess' fourteenth birthday anniversary. She was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. After dinner a theater party was enjoyed.

ARE GUESTS OF MR. AND MRS. CHARLES H. DAWTON

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cogswell, of Swaledale, Iowa, and Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Cogswell, of Clarion, Iowa, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lawton of Palmyra. Messrs. Herbert Cogswell and B. H. Cogswell, who are cousins of Mr. and Mrs. Lawton are former Nelson residents and their father at one time was candidate for county clerk, as some of the older readers will not doubt remember.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Chilled apple sauce cereal cooked with raisins, thin cream, codfish and potato puffs, sliced tomatoes, cornmeal muffins, milk coffee.

LUNCHEON—Scalloped spinach and tomatoes, graham bread, pumpkin pie, milk, tea.

DINNER—Salisbury steak, creamed potatoes, French fried onions, celery and cabbage salad, sliced peaches, fudge cake, bran rolls, milk, coffee.

School children must have a hearty breakfast to help them through the day. Very often the noon meal is hurried and eaten under a certain amount of tension so the breakfast plays a most important part in the child's diet.

Scalloped Spinach and Tomatoes.
12 onion, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, 3-4 cup fine dried bread crumbs, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons buttered crumbs, 2 tablespoons grated cheese. Wash spinach and cook in its own juice. Chop very fine! Peel tomatoes and cut in slices. Mince onion. Put a layer of dried crumbs into a well-buttered baking dish. Cover with a layer of sliced tomatoes and sprinkle with onion, salt, pepper and sugar. Dot generously with butter and cover with a layer of spinach. Continue layer for layer of crumbs, tomatoes, seasoning and spinach until all is used. Cover with buttered crumbs, sprinkle with cheese and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve from baking dish. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

News About Women

League Drops Americans

Geneva — (AP)—Constructive American women's influence in the development of the educational aspect of the League of Nations will be hit by the loss of two American women from the Secretariat—Miss Florence Wilson of New York, Chief Librarian, who has been with the League since its birth; and Miss Alice Church Bartlett, Assistant Librarian and Reference Librarian of the League.

The real cause of the departure of both of these American girls is the necessity of finding places for Germans on the League Secretariat once Germany becomes a Member of the League as is expected in September.

Miss Wilson created the League's library, which now contains some eighty thousand volumes, starting with only a few books when the League was modestly striving for a place under the sun at London in 1920.

Miss Wilson organized the library and archives for the Peace Conference at Paris, and as a member of the American Peace Commission did research work and wrote confidential memoranda.

Appointed Husband's Guardian

Budapest — (AP)—Count Franz Esterhazy, Jr., aged thirty, has been made a ward of his wife owing to his extravagance.

Among the instances of wasteful conduct that made the count's name in the judgment were his mismanagement of his 28,000 acre estate, his purchase of the late emperor's stable in order to present the horses to King Otto, the day he is placed on the throne of Hungary, his employing several hundred of persons who took part in ex-King Charles' October "putsch," and finally his wardrobe of 3,000 suits, which he never allowed to fall below that number.

Berlin—(AP)—Gretchen in the film impersonation of Goethe's "Faust" is the career of Camilla Horn, German movie actress.

Miss Horn was tending geese, as was her wont, on her father's farm in southern Germany, when the staff of a moving picture company passed by. The registrar and the head photographer gave each other a significant look, then walked in on the farmer and signed up the daughter for world fame.

shades of gold. The actress believes they enhance the beauty of every woman who wears them.

Mannish-tailored gowns, however, are frowned on by Miss Adoree. "Avoid them if you are the decidedly feminine type. Few women can wear them successfully."

"Big hats are delightful and very feminine but they are not practical. Small hats are smart. Long skirts are all right for evening wear, but I do not approve of them on the street. After the comfort of short skirts women will never accept long skirts again."

Miami Looters Beaten in Battle Last Night

Miami Beach, Fla., Sept. 22—(AP)—The home of Harvey S. Firestone, tire manufacturer, was the scene of a pitched battle here last night when looters attempted to carry away a large amount of furnishings. Blue jackets on guard duty in the vicinity opened fire and after several shots the looters fled. The house was not badly damaged by the hurricane.

FARMERS' PICNIC AT OREGON DREW UNUSUAL CROWD

Feature of Outing an Address by Hon. H. R. Rathbone

Oregon—The Ogle County Farmers' and Merchants' annual picnic was carried through with success on Thursday under the management of the officers of the County Farm Bureau and the cooperating merchants. This is the third year in which the business men of the county have cooperated with the farmers in a picnic which is free and open to every one living in the county.

In spite of very disagreeable looking weather in the morning the cars began to come to the Fair Grounds about 11 o'clock and by the noon hour there were about 1500 people present with well filled baskets to enjoy a picnic dinner. They were greeted by music from the Belvidere High school band who played several numbers before noon and gave another good concert after dinner. This Boys' Band, numbering 45 pieces, played exceptionally well under the direction of C. F. Gates and gave excellent satisfaction at the picnic.

Program of Sports.
The program of sports included races for boys and girls of all ages; a hog calling contest for men and a chicken calling and rolling pin contest for the women. The rolling pin throwing contest was most exciting of all and the audience watched eagerly while the contestants wielded the rolling pins as though they had experience at home and threw them at a dummy which was said to represent their husbands. Mrs. L. D. Carmichael won the first premium in this contest and was awarded a sack of flour, while Mrs. Hyssol was awarded second prize, receiving a pair of silk hose.

In the chicken calling contest Marie Zundahl of Mt. Morris was awarded the first prize for being able to call her chickens in the most enticing manner and was awarded a step ladder stool. Second prize went to Mrs. Amelia Green of Oregon.

In the hog calling contest there were a large number of entries. The contestants stood in line while the judges were down the race track about 40 rods to judge which of them called in a way that would be most appealing to the porkers in the pasture if they were called to dinner. The first prize in this contest was given to Henry Hackbarth and the second one to Chas. Dugdale. These men exhibited considerable volume of voice and quality of tone which was considered by the judges to be just the kind to which the pigs would respond most readily.

Rathbone Speaker

The speaker of the occasion was Henry R. Rathbone, congressman-at-large from Illinois, who gave a most excellent address upon national problems of America with special emphasis upon the farmers' relation to them. The speaker was introduced by Farm Bureau President G. A. Lazier, who mentioned the work that the Farm Bureau in Ogle County has recently done in securing an adjustment of farm property valuations for tax purposes which the Board of Review has recently granted.

Following the speaking program a base ball game between the East and West sides of the county was played. The East side distinguishing themselves as the winners for the second consecutive year.

During the entire day horseshoe playing experts were busy deciding the county championship.

Premiums awarded by merchants were given as prizes for the many contests and games and about a hundred premiums were distributed as attendance prizes. While the number in attendance was not as large as at the last two annual picnics because of the doubtful condition of the weather still it can be said that those that were here had just as good a time as they have ever had at any picnic and the entire day was considered very much a success.

The Farm Bureau exhibit on corn selection that was prepared for the Ogle County Fair was left and the building opened so that those who had not seen it at the Fair might have an opportunity to do so at the picnic.

Friendly Indians' Tests Explained

Last evening the boys' club known as Friendly Indians met for supper at 6 o'clock under their leader, Edward Lair. After the "bean feed" three new members were voted into the Tribe. Charles Sodergren, Robert Grove and Donald Origiesen. This fills the quota for this tribe and a new club will be organized the first part of next week.

Following the supper Mr. Yohn, the Associated Physical Director, spoke to the boys on "How to Keep Healthy." After the business of the meeting had been disposed of, the boys went to the gym and enjoyed a "bunch" of group games and from there to the swimming pool. The boys chose as the Tribe name the "Blackhawks" Tribe of Friendly Indians.

The tests as handed out to the Tribe by Big Chief Lair, are being worked out by the boys and the boy receiving the highest number of points each month will be designated as Little Chief of the Tribe for the following month. The boys have thirty tests in which they can earn points and a few of these tests are given as follows:

Name and explain five fundamental laws of health. Three points.
Investigate and write or tell in 150 words how Dixon disposes of its garbage. Five points.

Give the United States Forest Service six rules for fire prevention. Five points.

Collect fifteen natural specimens from water, woods and fields and name each correctly, telling or writing about it. Five points.

Swim at least 50 feet. Three points.
Memorize two standard church hymns as designated by your Big Chief. Five points.

Recite ten Commandments and the Beatitudes. Five points.
Recite America and The Star Spangled Banner. Five points.

Toastmasters Club in First Meeting

The Toastmasters Club will meet for their first meeting tomorrow evening at the Y. M. C. A. at 6:30. In addition to the program supplied by the committee in charge, reports will be brought in from the different committees and arrangements made for the coming winter's program.

During the summer the chicken project which was started by this club, has created considerable interest and the boys through the country are working hard to get the best results from the chickens for the Toastmasters' Chicken Fair to be held the first part of November.

The Sterling Toastmasters' Club started activities a week ago and this Friday is giving a banquet for the Toastmasters' Clubs of the district. The local organization will have a part on the program.

Hi-Y Club to Resume Meetings Tomorrow

The first meeting of the Hi-Y Club will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Association reading room, when the mothers will meet to discuss the Hi-Y work and outline their part in the program for the coming year.

A TIME OF TRIAL.

The hurricane that swept Florida and other southern states has left a wide path of destruction and misery in its wake and all America is saddened by this colossal disaster. At this long range it is difficult for us to comprehend the extent of the dreadful loss of life and property and the terrible conditions that prevail in the wind-wrecked area.

Every community is making an effort to act promptly to aid in the alleviation of distress in the south and Dixon and Lee County will do its share. The local Red Cross organization is in action and has sent out an appeal for funds for relief work. The Evening Telegraph will accept donations and every bank in the county is also authorized to collect funds. The Telegraph hopes for a prompt and generous response. Send your donation in as quickly as possible. Gifts sent to this paper will be acknowledged through the paper.

HAVE AT YOU, GARIBALDI.

Over at Nice, two Italian journalists fought a desperate duel. Nothing less than rapiers, girls. For nine rounds they struggled, parried, thrust. And, at the finish, lo! there stood the two journalists, just as intact as upon the day they came into the world.

These duels are getting to be a regular feature of the news columns. Time after time we read of two Italians fighting a bloody battle in which neither participant suffers so much as a scratch.

We are reminded of our history book. In the early days of the nineteenth century duels were common among the young bloods of the American navy. Ten paces, with pistols. One of the combatants usually was carried off the field of honor dead, or in a dying condition.

In those days a duel without a fatality was news. Now news values are changing, and if the Italians keep at it, pretty soon a duel will have to be fatal to make the paper.

Perhaps the only way duelling over there will be stopped is through the eventualty of one of the contestants inadvertently slaying his opponent. Hasten the day.

THE PRINCE'S THUMB.

News concerning the Prince of Wales is always interesting to Americans, unless it is some wild rumor that the prince is engaged to some unknown young lady. The almost daily "engagement report" has such little foundation it passes without being noticed.

When the prince falls off his horse, however, everyone chuckles. The jokesters rush down to the office early to remark, "Well, that's a horse on him," or something equally aged and silly.

On his way to the beach for a swim the other day it was noticed something was wrong with the prince's thumb. "I sprained it playing golf," was his explanation.

And there lies the secret of his real attraction. The chances are the idea never entered his head that he should stay out of the water just because he had a sprained thumb. It's the same way with riding. When he falls off his horse he gets back on again. Give him credit for nerve above the average.

WESTON HAS SUCCEEDED.

Edward Payson Weston, the famous walker, recently defeated in his hike against Poverty, has quietly settled into a job as handy man at a Kingston (N. Y.) hotel.

"Poor old man!" many may say, but it is sympathy wasted. If Edward Payson Weston is good enough, at 85, to fill the job of handy man, which often calls for some rather arduous labor, he needs no sympathy.

He needs no sympathy he has proved what he set out to establish, that walking is the universal health-building exercise. He can work at 85. His doctrine is sound. He has succeeded.

Perhaps a few of us who now ride in motor cars every time we have to go two blocks will not succeed so well.

If it weren't for engine trouble some parlors never would be used.

KEWANEE HOLSTEIN GAVE OVER TON AND QUARTER OF MILKProduction Made Her Best in State in Month of August

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A production during August of more than a ton and a quarter of milk containing a shade more than 91 pounds of butterfat was sufficient to make a purbed Holstein in the herd of J. H. Andrews, Kewanee, the best one for the month among the 14,000 Illinois dairy cows that are being tested for milk and butterfat production in the 31 dairy herd improvement associations of the state. The best herd for the month was owned by William Van Beuning, Glasford, whose purbed Holstein averaged 1,229 pounds of milk and 44.5 pounds of fat each of an announcement by C. S. Rhode, dairy extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

McHenry, McLean and Lake counties shared honors in the number of high producing cows which they were able to place among the ten best ones for the month, each of these counties furnished one each. Henry county took the honors for the largest number of herds among the ten best ones. Three herds from that county produced enough to win themselves a place among the first ten for the month. Mountie county followed with two of the ten highest producing herds, while Peoria, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Jo Daviess counties each had one.

Owners of the ten highest producing cows together with the butterfat production of the animals were: J. H. Andrews, Kewanee, 91.1 pounds of fat; E. A. Danielson & Son, La. land, 88.7 pounds of fat; A. B. Cornue, Hebron, 83.2 pounds; Green Bonnett Farm, McLean, 78.7 pounds; Hawthorne Farm, Libertyville, 73.5 pounds; Green Bonnett Farm, McLean, 72.9 pounds; Rock River Farms, Byron, 71.5 pounds; J. M. Logie, Gurnee, 70.3 pounds; A. D. Cornue, Hebron, 69.6 pounds; and A. W. Abbott, Downers Grove, 69.6 pounds.

Owners of the ten best herds for the month, together with the average butterfat production of each cow in the herds were: William Van Beuning, Glasford, 44.5 pounds of fat; V. J. Winnings, Lake City, 43.3 pounds; C. O. Patterson, Sullivan, 41.7 pounds; J. H. Andrews, Kewanee, 41.6 pounds; Melms Brothers, Hampshire, 41.6 pounds; Anton DeGraff, Grays Lake, 38.9 pounds; A. D. Cornue, Hebron, 38.7 pounds; W. H. Brown, Cambridge, 38.6 pounds; W. F. Doy, Kewanee, 38.3 pounds; and William Atz, Woodbine, 38.1 pounds.

You can't watch your disposition too carefully. A crab and a grouch are rarely successful. If your liver and stomach are in an unhealthy condition you can not have a sunny disposition because they affect the brains as well as the entire system. MAYR'S has been usually successful in such cases. Our advice to everyone troubled in this way, especially when accompanied with bloating in the stomach, is to try this remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Review of Fast
of the Republic

May 23 and 24, 1866, the Grand Army of the Republic first paraded, before President Andrew Johnson, in Washington. The Army of the Potomac passed the first day and the Western Army, under General W. T. Sherman, the second day. Two hundred-thousand soldiers were in the review.

The Grand Army of the Republic was organized in 1867, with B. F. Stephenson, Illinois, as provisional commander. S. A. Hurlburt, Illinois, was elected national commander, later the same year.

General John A. Logan, on May 5, 1868, by a General Order established Memorial Day, since almost universally observed on May 30. Largest encampment was at Boston, in 1890, when 409,489 veterans attended.

Major General John L. Clem, who enlisted as a drummer boy at the age of nine, is believed to be the youngest member of the G. A. R.

Navy Experiments
With Radio Vision

Washington.—(AP)—Substitution of the transmission of visual forms of radio messages for the present system of telegraphic dots and dashes is the ultimate aim of the Navy Department in a series of experiments now in progress.

Use For Weather Maps
The machines which naval engineers hope will make possible this revolution in naval communication between shore and ship and from ship to ship are the invention of C. Francis Jenkins of Washington. They already have been successfully employed for the transmission of weather maps by radio over comparatively long distances.

Naval officers declare the advantages of transmitting a written message by wireless over the present system of telegraph code would be many fold. Practically all possibility of garbling would be removed and in addition the message could be received only by ships having the special receiving apparatus.

The process now used for the transmission of weather maps, which are intricate things with a series of lines, words and numbers, is a comparatively simple one as the inventor explains it.

As the device now works a negative is made of the map or message to be transmitted. This light shining through the rotating map or message falls on light sensitive cells the func-

Museum Gets Coat Made

Nashville, Tenn.—(AP)—One of the few products of the shears and needle ever actually made by a president of the United States is now a possession of the Tennessee state museum.

It is a handsome, well-preserved coat of the finest broadcloth made by President Andrew Jackson, for Circuit Judge W. W. Pepper of Tennessee, seventy years ago.

Jackson was a tailor. Pepper was a blacksmith. While Governor of Tennessee, Jackson was presented with a handsome set of shovel and tongs, made by Judge Pepper, who left the bench and spent a day at the forge fashioning the gift.

Jackson was not to be outdone. He left the governor's chair temporarily selected the finest piece of goods to be had and tailored Judge Pepper a coat without flaw.

ANNA CASE, OPERA STAR, WILL OPEN KENT STAR SERIES

Albert Spalding, Concert Violinists, to Assist Her, Oct. 3

Anna Case, famed soprano of Metropolitan Opera, and Albert Spalding, concert violinist, will lead the long procession of nationally famous grand opera and concert artists whom A. Atwater Kent has engaged for his series of weekly radio concerts, this season.

These two artists will open the series on October 3, broadcasting over a network of fifteen stations. They will be followed on succeeding Sunday evenings by such internationally known stars as Frances Alda, Lucie Arncliffe, Ernestine Schumann-Hempel, Frieda Hempel, Josef Hofmann, Edward Johnson, Maria Kurenko, Louise Homer, Reinold Werrenrath, Margaret Matzenauer, Mary Lewis, Rosa Ponselle, Charles Hackett, and others yet to be announced.

The enlistment of these top liners of the music world has been made possible through a special arrangement Mr. Kent has made with the Metropolitan Opera Company, enabling him to broadcast world famous opera stars not heretofore available to radio.

Announcement of the opening of the big Sunday evening series comes on the eve of the last of the summer radio programs conducted by Allen McQuhee, the popular Irish tenor. The success of this and other summer radio concerts has led to predictions of revolutionary changes in the concert world, which has heretofore enjoyed strictly seasonal popularity.

The facility of trying to assemble audiences in concert halls during the summer months has heretofore determined the time when the concert season opened and closed. Radio now follows the music lover, no matter where or when he goes and brings him the finest concert music.

When, on September 22, Allen McQuhee in the Atwater Kent hour sang "The Lord is My Light," "Autumn Leaves," "Caucasian Sketches," "Ballymore Ballad," "Nora O'Neil," and others, he will for a time bid goodbye to an appreciative audience of millions of listeners scattered thousands of miles apart over half of the United States.

The stations that will broadcast the big series of Atwater Kent Sunday evening concerts, are as follows:

WEAF, New York; WJAR, Providence; WEEI, Boston; WSAI, Cincinnati; WFL, Philadelphia; WRC, Washington; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WTAM, Cleveland; WGN, Chicago; WCAE, Pittsburgh; WGB, Buffalo; WOC, Davenport; WTAB, Worcester; KSD, St. Louis; and WWJ, Detroit.

CHAMP IS HEAVY FAVORITE WITH MAJORITY FANS

Is Confident He'll Win Inside of Five or Six Rounds

TO BROADCAST FIGHT

New York, Sept. 22—(AP)—Stations WDAF and WJZ will be augmented by more than a score of other stations in broadcasting the Dempsey-Tunney fight from the ringside. The hook-up will include WCAE, Pittsburgh; WSAI, Cincinnati; WTAM, Cleveland; WJW, Detroit; WOC, Davenport; WCCO, St. Paul; KSD, St. Louis; WGN, Chicago; WDAF, Kansas City; KDKA, Pittsburgh; KFKX, Hastings, Neb.; and KYW, Chicago.

Graham McNamee and Major Andrew White will be the ringside mikes.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22—(AP)—No champion since the days of John L. Sullivan, has been made as overwhelming a favorite as Jack Dempsey has been established for his ten round decision match with Gene Tunney tomorrow night.

In spite of a somewhat belated trend of sentiment among observers toward Tunney the last few days, majority opinion has remained strongly in the champion's favor. Few have been willing to concede the challenger more than an outside chance.

"Dempsey has the punch," most any expert or non-expert will say with an air of finality that seems to carry the conviction it will quickly and the aspirations of the former Marine.

Consider Tunney. Moreover, there are Tunney's own qualifications to consider—his own hitting ability, a right hand wallop that has registered many a knockout; his ruggedness and boxing ability.

But invariably the fight enthusiast comes back to the belief that Dempsey's punch will end the battle of the Sesqui.

Among newspaper critics, among the men who have been backing their opinions in wagers at odds as high as 3-1 on the champion, and among the "wisemen" of the boxing game there is almost universal conviction that Dempsey will win by a knockout inside of four rounds.

HAS NO ALIBI READY

Stroudsburg, Pa., Sept. 22—(AP)—Gene Tunney has nothing to do until tomorrow. Waitful waiting was his slogan today. He hopes to escape an ante-bout welcome in Philadelphia. He will go from Stroudsburg in the private car of a friend. The car will be sidetracked before the train reaches the station in Philadelphia and the challenger conveyed by motor car to a private home.

Tunney thinks he is the better man but if he is not still says: "May the better man win." He says he has no alibi to uncover if defeated.

CHAMP IS CONFIDENT

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 22—(AP)—Gene Tunney "will have to be a good catcher to go more than five rounds" in the opinion of Jack Dempsey.

"If I can tip Tunney over with the first punch I will do it," the champion said.

"Feeling like a two year old," he professes to be convinced that victory at Philadelphia is only a matter of a few rounds.

"I am going to win," he said. "How many rounds, I don't know. If I can do it in the first round I'll do it. If it takes a little longer I can't help it. But Tunney will have to be a good catcher to go over five rounds the way I feel today."

SIDELIGHTS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Uhle, ace of the Cleveland Indians twirlers, let the Red Sox down with four hits while winning his 26th victory of the season.

The Yanks smarting under a double header defeat on Monday by the White Sox turned against their foe yesterday and hammered three pitchers. Babe Ruth poled his 44th homer and Tony Lazzeri hung up his 18th.

Some brilliant support, including three double plays and Genewich's pitching enabled the Braves to hold back the Reds while the Boston crew continued their assault against the Cincinnati twirlers to make it three in a row.

Jack Cummings, rookie catcher from the Wheeling club, helped the Giants beat the Cubs by driving in two runs with a two bagger.

The veteran Cy Williams of the Phillies smashed the offerings of Meadows all over the lot. Cy turned in two two baggers and hung up his 15th homer of the season.

FORMER STAR MARRIED

Freeport, Ill., Sept. 22—(AP)—Abner Dalrymple, 65, St. Paul, Minn., big league baseball star from 1876 to 1891 and Babe Ruth of his day was united in marriage at Warren, Illinois, near here to Mrs. Margaret Glasgow, wealthy widow and school mate of Dalrymple, 50 years ago. The bride was the widow of Colonel W. H. Glasgow, long prominent as a lawyer and a national guard.

CALLAHAN MEETS WALKER IN RING NEXT THURSDAY

Welterweights Feature Fight at Chicago Cubs' Park

Chicago, Sept. 22—Mickey Walker, former welterweight champion of the world, will meet Shuffle Callahan of Chicago at the Cubs' Ball Park here, Thursday night, September 30th, in a ten round bout to a referee's decision. This battle has been in the making for many months, or ever since Callahan started moving down the leading welterweights, with a long string of successive knockouts.

Callahan is the most dangerous hitter in the ring. His peculiar style, combined with his deadly punching, has made Shuffle feared throughout the country. Practically every welterweight in the game has refused to meet him and Mickey Walker, great fighter that he is, received a very sizable guarantee before signing to meet Callahan.

Walker, after losing his title this year, was sent up into the Pennsylvania mountains by his manager, Jack Kearns, and for three months Mickey has been working at a lumber camp. He is pronounced in the finest condition of his entire career and will come to Chicago this week to finish training in accordance with the rules of the Illinois Athletic Commission.

Callahan has been working at Mullen's Gymnasium here since returning from a sojourn in the woods of Northern Minnesota. This fight will be the greatest hitting contest ever staged in the middle west. Promoter Jim Mullen has received many calls for seats already and when the ticket sale opened yesterday the office reported a brisk business.

A high class card will support the Callahan-Walker battle. Del Fontaine, the Canadian middleweight champion, a great fighter in every sense of the word, will meet Joe Anderson of Cincinnati, the boy who licked Pinky Mitchell. They will go ten rounds and weigh 158 pounds.

Harry Dillon of Portland, Ore., light heavyweight sensation, will meet Joe Woods, Chicago's newest entry in the 175 pound division. They will also go ten rounds and the weight is 175 pounds. Wilett Langford, Chicago's best colored boxer, will tackle Allentown Joe Gans, the boy who fought Tiger Flowers to a draw, in the fourth ten rounder at 160 pounds.

Dempsey's Share of Purse is Attached

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 21—(AP)—An attachment for Jack Dempsey's share of the purse when he fights Gene Tunney Thursday night was issued in common pleas court today at the request of counsel for Jack Kearns, Dempsey's former manager.

Tex Rickard was named as garnishee and the bail to secure Dempsey's assets was fixed at $600,000.

Kearns is suing for money alleged to be due him under the terms of his former contract with the champion.

GOVT. CAN'T STOP IT

Washington, Sept. 21—(AP)—There are no legal grounds on which the federal government may interfere with the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Philadelphia, Secretary Hoover said today in his capacity as government member of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition commission. A number of protests against the fight have been made to Washington.

EXTRA! HOOPE PICKS TUNNEY TO BE WINNER

Major Can't be Wrong For He Picked Dempsey Yesterday

EDITOR'S NOTE: Yesterday Major Hoople picked Jack Dempsey to win the big fight Thursday. In this article he picks Tunney. He can't be wrong.

BY MAJOR HOOPE
Sports Editor Emeritus of the Boston India Relish

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 22—Egad, folks, er, ah—let me see now, what was it I wrote about yesterday? Him-m, odd I do not remember. I am noted for my remarkable memory.

Indeed, there are only two trivial subjects that I can not memorize. Telephone numbers for one, and as well for the life of me I can't recall just what the other is just now. Well, anyhow, the article is recorded for history, by Jove.

Pardon my yawn, but I spent last evening with an enjoyable group of nationally known sports writers, discussing science, art and literature. I was awakened in early mid-day on the end of a boardwalk pier by the sound of the surf.

How I got there is more or less a mystery, but ah—no, by Jove, I retract that statement. I recall now going out on the pier with Jos Williams and Ed Frayne, noted boxing narrators, to observe the phenomena of marine phosphorescence on incoming breakers. Ahem, yes.

Quaint Drollery

Now then, friends, today is one of quiet and rest at the Dempsey camp. Following my advice, the champion discontinued intensive training and is resting nerve and muscle for the clang of the gong. His sparring partners, whom I have dubbed "leathery smellers" in my quaint drollery, have left camp, some to recuperate and others to take in the sights, with one eye.

So you see, there is little camp news except for a few gleanings of unimportant detail that you may gather elsewhere. My writing, as you know, deals only with official and first-hand news, egad.

Feeling in need of a bit of exercise myself, I did ten miles of road work in the hotel lobbies along the ocean. Accepting cigars, being hailed by this celebrity and that, and literally besieged by every group to join their party back to Philadelphia in the morning.

Of course I was forced to decline, having already promised Senator McFadden I would accompany him and give him viewpoints on a certain national topic dealing with the modification of a much-discussed constitutional amendment.

Egad, m'lads, m'lads in an earlier article I refused to make public my selection as to who would win the fight, but I am in receipt of thousands of requests from my intelligent readers, imploring me to rescind the declaration and predict the winner's name to an eager world.

Some have even gone so far as to say that it may mean utter financial ruin for them if I do not relieve their anxiety. Very well, gentlemen.

Don't Forget, Readers

The winner of tomorrow evening's encounter will be Eugene Tunney! While Dempsey is a very close friend of mine, still I forecast that he will meet defeat at the gloved hands of his challenger. So I pick Tunney to win the heavyweight title.

Bear me out on that, gentlemen, and after it is over don't forget who told you. I leave for the scene of the contest tomorrow, and another enlightening article will be forthcoming giving last minute observations, followed by the crowning climax, my word painting of the battle itself. By Jove, I trust you will pardon me while I go to my suite of rooms for a gargle of throat lotion. That confounded larynx of mine, egad! (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

REDS' CHANCES VERY REMOTE AS RESULT BEATING

Boston Braves Practically Eliminate Hendrick's Men

The chances of Cincinnati overwhelming St. Louis in the National League race appeared remote today. The Cardinals' lead of two games was intact. There are but four more games for each team to play.

The Boston Braves yesterday shut out Cincinnati 4-0 for the Reds' fifth consecutive defeat. The Cardinals meanwhile lost to Brooklyn 4-3. St. Louis fans already are planning a demonstration when the team comes home after games with Brooklyn, New York and Cincinnati.

Another Cincinnati defeat and a Cardinal victory mean for St. Louis at least a tie for the pennant. If St. Louis wins two games the best the Reds can do is tie by winning all four.

The standing:

National	Won	Lost	To Play	Pct.
----------	-----	------	---------	------

St. Louis 87 63 4 .580

Cincinnati 85 65 4 .567

American

New York 89 60 5 .597

Cleveland 86 63 5 .577

In the American League both leaders won, New York battered Chicago

14-0 and Cleveland rapped Boston 6-1.

The Yanks need only two more wins in five contests to clinch the flag while the Indians are losing one out of

COURT ACTIONS NOT LIKELY TO STOP BIG FIGHT

Dempsey-Tunney Meeting Will Weather Legal Moves

Philadelphia, Sept. 22—(AP)—The day before the battle found the Dempsey-Tunney championship bout still behind a smoke screen of legal entanglements and the city of Philadelphia swamped by the advance influx of one of the greatest crowds that ever gathered for a sporting spectacle anywhere.

None of the dozen or more court cases started either by Jack Kearns, Dempsey's former manager, or B. C. Clements, Chicago promoter, appeared likely to upset the plans for the bout.

Chief of late maneuvers was a hearing scheduled for this afternoon on application for an injunction to stop the fight brought by Clements who claims he has a prior contract binding Dempsey's services.

There will be no interference, so far as state or city officials are concerned. Governor Pinchot not only has declined to obstruct the bout, but plans to occupy a ringside seat and root for Tunney.

The flat fans, who will number probably 132,000 at the first heavy-weight title match in three years, are not bothered by the legal barriers that have beset the bout. Their chief difficulties have been concerned with getting a place to sleep and a ticket with which to pass the portals of the gigantic Sesqui-Centennial Stadium tomorrow night. Both are becoming as scarce as uncracked Liberty Bells.

HEADS BASEBALL LEAGUE

Marion, Ill., Sept. 2—(AP)—George Hall of Zeigler was elected president of the Southern Illinois Hard Roads Baseball League in the annual meeting here last night. Mark Smith, Harrisburg newspaperman, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Duquoin was awarded the league championship.

ILLINOIS SENIOR GOLF TOURNAMENT OPENS IN CHICAGO

Old Timers Start Play in Annual Meeting at Midlothian

Chicago, Sept. 22—(AP)—The veteran golfers of the state had their round today in the fourth annual tournament of the Illinois Senior Golf Association at Midlothian Country Club here.

More than 150 old timers were matched in foursomes for the 18 hole play, in which ten agile tile aspirants of 70 years of age were entered. The senior competition is for players who have celebrated their fiftieth birthday or better.

Six prizes were offered in each of six age classes, four low net awards and two offerings for putting.

Class A competition is open only to men 70 or over, with the lower classes graduated down through Class E, which includes the babies—those between 50 and 54. Full handicap allowances will be made in computing the scores.

Some of the down-state entries, with their club and handicaps:

Chas. S. Cackle—18—Peoria Country Club.

Chas. M. Fish—18—Joliet Country Club.

"GOD'S GO-GETTER" IS WHAT AIMEE IS CALLED BY FRIENDS

"God's Saleswoman" is the Title Also Applied to Evangelist

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of three articles by Allene Summer, writer for The Dixon Evening Telegraph and NEA Service, on the picturesque life of Aimee Semple McPherson, noted evangelist now under arrest in Los Angeles.

BY ALLENE SUMMER
NEA Service Writer

(Copyright, 1926, EA Service, Inc.) "God's Go-Getter" and "God's Saleswoman," they call Aimee Semple McPherson, woman evangelist of mystery, out in Los Angeles, where the lights of her temple meet the lights of the stars.

Out in Los Angeles, where some say God himself snatched her from the evil hands of Mexican kidnappers, and where others say love for Kenneth Ormiston, her temple radio operator, and not kidnappers kept her from her flock.

All the story writers of all times, all climes, could not conjure up a woman more alluring, more magnetic, more perplexing than this woman who today faces prison bars on a charge she broke faith with the multitude.

Blind See, Lane Walk

The blind have been made to see at her touch—they say.

The lame have been made to walk—the very lame have fled their pained legs at sight of this queenly woman with ropes of chestnut hair. "Who's Who?" starts the glamorous story for us. Aimee Kennedy was born in Ingersoll, Ontario, Canada, Oct. 9, 1890, it says. The woman who gave her birth was a Salvation Army lassie who changed the tinkle of her tambourine for the clank of a dishpan when love and marriage seemed her way of service.

Dedicated to God

The story goes on with a little pig-tailed girl of 5, wide-eyed beside a kneeling mother who, holding the tiny hand of her daughter, looked up into the heavens and shouted—

"She is yours, Lord. I couldn't do the job myself. But take this child and use her for Your Kingdom."

A little girl of a Canadian farm, going sleighing to a revival, converted, vowing that nothing should check the task her mother had put upon her—this is the Aimee of childhood.

But the little zealot's eyes were soft and brown, and at 17 love came to her even as to her Salvation Army mother in the years ago.

Love and marriage, though, only quickened the flame of Aimee's zeal.

Mate of Same Calling

Her husband was Robert Semple, preacher and evangelist. Aimee traveled the world over with him, from circuit riding in bleak Canadian wilds to fashionable London churches and then into yellow China.

Simple did, leaving his wife penniless and about to be a mother.

When the little daughter, Roberta, was six weeks old, somehow or other the mother managed to get back to Canada, preaching as she went, with her babe in her arms.

The "Gospel Auto"

Lean and hungry years. The streets for a church, a rickety, wooden chair for a pulpit. Two listeners to her word when first she preached. Fifty the second time.

A sixty-dollar collection.

The young mother-evangelist bought her a "gospel auto," touring the highways and byways, shouting and whispering the word of God.

But she still was young, comely. She had her little girl. She wanted a home "like other women."

She encountered Harold McPherson. Aimee now was 23.

McPherson, Aimee says, promised to evangelize with her—tread all the barren paths the world over with her, entreating unbelievers, giving all to the Lord.

Marriage, Then Divorce

They were married in New York. Eight years ago she divorced him, giving as cause his apathy toward her great work, citing him as a drag upon her. There was a little son, Roy, now.

Aimee Semple McPherson, her children with her, set forth in her gospel auto. Human swarms greeted her as she went westward.

They wept and clung to the beautiful woman, shouting that God's kingdom on earth had come. Purses were emptied at her feet.

And Aimee traveled westward. Los Angeles was her final stop.

"Here," said she, "I will preach."

Overdue Ships Arrive in Miami in Safety

Miami, Fla., Sept. 22—(AP)—The Clyde liner Cherokee, the Merchants & Miners liner Berkshire and the freighter Louisiana have arrived here safely. Apprehension for their safety had been entertained.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 22—(AP)—The passenger steamer Esther Weems which had been reported 36 hours overdue at Miami, arrived at port Monday only four hours late, it was announced today. The vessel put further out to sea and avoided the worst of the storm.

Thompson Candidate for Mayor of Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 22—(AP)—William Hale Thompson, former mayor of Chicago, last night made a statement interpreted as announcing his candidacy for the republican majority nomination in the April primaries. Incident to the declaration of a friend that "Big Bill" would be formally asked to run and would accept, Thompson's quoted response was "what he says goes for me."

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Auburn, N. Y.—Burned pancakes provide insufficient judicial reasons for the change of the name of Mrs. Charles L. Shergur back to plain Lydia Sloan. Justice Stevens has denied the annulment petition of her husband, who is 82, and was formerly national chaplain of the G. A. R.

New York—Miss Mary Ann Payne, young art student and descendant of associates of William the Conqueror, is to change her name. She is to marry James Blanchard Clevs, 56, head of the banking house of Henry Clevs & Company.

Sebring, Fla.—Liquor is needed as medicine by flood victims at Moorehaven. The Sebring Chamber of Commerce appeals for shipments.

Amsterdam—If the Dutch army must take long hikes in hot weather, it must have more beer; that's all. Refusal to increase the supply caused a mutiny at Assen in which one non-com was killed and several privates wounded.

Philadelphia—It may not be because of a great exhibition of vitality here tomorrow night, but Oxford bags are going out of style. It is so predicted by retail clothiers in convention.

Atlantic City—Much of the increase in fire losses in the United States in recent years is due to women smoking in boudoirs, in the opinion of John B. Morton, formerly president of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

London—Having shot eleven polar bears Miss Louise Boyd of California is on the way home from Franz Josef Land in the Arctic. Miss Janet Coleman, also of California, and the Count and Countess Rivadavia of Spain made the trip with her.

France and England Wire Their Sympathy

Paris, Sept. 21—(AP)—The French cabinet today authorized Premier Briand to cable an expression of the government's sympathy to the United States in the Florida storm catastrophe.

London, Sept. 21—(AP)—Premier Baldwin has directed the ambassador in Washington to express "the deep regret of the British government at the appalling disaster in Florida and its heartfelt sympathy for the people of the afflicted area."

Too Much "Acid?"

Excess Uric Acid Gives Rise to Many Unpleasant Troubles.

AUTHORITIES agree that an excess of uric acid is primarily due to faulty kidney action. Retention of this toxic material often makes its presence felt by sore, painful joints, a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning right is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Thousands assist their kidneys at such times by the use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Doan's Pills are recommended by many local people. Ask your neighbor!

HUMAN SIDE OF PRESIDENT IS SHOWN BY TALK

spend much time traveling," he began. "The details of administration become greater and greater and require more and more time. The supervision of the expenditure of nearly $4,000,000,000 each year is a very large task. It is only a few years ago our expenditures were less than $500,000,000. I have been told that when William C. Whitney was Secretary of the Navy under Cleveland he was in Washington only 65 days during one year. Of course that would be impossible now and the story may not be correct. Mr. Whitney had a fine reputation as a secretary and did much to lay the foundations of our present navy. But in his day when the army and navy together were supported for about $50,000,000 he would have a good deal of leisure which is not possible now. If I should leave Washington on extended trips it would not be possible for me to keep up details of administration."

I thought of my annual journey up to the little village in Vermont. "There is one trip that you manage to find time for every year," I suggested.

Plymouth Is Different

"You mean Plymouth?" he smiled. "That is different. Plymouth gives me something that I need in my work and cannot get anywhere else. It is now 31 years since I left Plymouth to study law in Northampton. The people among whom I was reared were of the kind that make up the backbone of the nation. For some years I have lived in very different surroundings and in a very different atmosphere. But I return there whenever I can so as to refresh my knowledge of how the ordinary run of people in this country live. I do little work on the farm now but I did much when I was a boy. I like to disperse with the kind of service that it is necessary for me to have at the White House and wait on myself. I find a strap is broken I like to get out the tools that are used by shoemakers and harness makers, make a waxed end and repair it. I like to do a little blacksmithing around what is left of our old shop, try my hand again with the carpenter's tools, go out and repair the fence when it is broken down and mend the latch on the kitchen door. Most people in this country do these things themselves and do not hire them done. I want to keep in mind how people live and what it is necessary for them to do to get along and meet their bills out of their ordinary income. My father and my people led the kind of life which is altogether natural and wholesome. It seems to me to be the foundation of independence."

"A boy who grows up on the farm has a very close companionship with his parents," I said.

Farm Advantages

"Yes and that is a great advantage provided the boy has the right sort of parents. I had the right sort of parents. My father was a man of untiring industry and great tenacity of purpose. His long experience in local office gave him a very broad and, I found, a very accurate knowledge of law. He always stuck to the truth. I can not recall that I ever knew of his doing a wrong thing. He would be classed as decidedly a man of character. I have no doubt he is representative of a great mass of Americans who are known only to their neighbors; nevertheless they are really great. It would be difficult to say that he had a happy life. He never seemed to be seeking happiness. He was a firm believer in hard work. Death visited the family often. But I have no doubt he took a satisfaction in accomplishment and always stood ready to meet any duty that came to him. He did not fear the end of life, but looked forward to it as a reunion with all he had loved and lost."

"When I was 12 years old my mother was taken away. She was a sweet and gentle influence. I always recall her having my sister and me brought to her bedside to receive her blessing in her very last hours."

"She had been an invalid for as long as I could remember. I can see now that she was a woman of taste and discretion and had a fine sense of discrimination. It was seven years before my father married again. Meantime I stayed a great deal with my grandmother who was a strong, resolute woman of deep religious convictions and a true daughter of the Puritans. My step-mother was all that a mother could be who was not your very own. She was a talented woman, fond of books and of a scholarly disposition. I thus had the good fortune to come under the influence of three good women, a most important element in guiding the career of any man."

"Did you have the usual boy's ambition to be a policeman or engineer?" I asked.

Wanted to Keep Store

"Living in the country, I did not have much knowledge of railroad engineers or policemen," he answered. "As I now recall it, I had always rather hoped that I might keep store when I grew up."

"Did it ever occur to you that you might be President when you grew up?"

"That never occurred to me. If the question had been proposed to me, I should have been quite certain that I would never be qualified to serve my fellow countrymen. I do not recall that anyone in whose judgment I would place much reliance ever told me in my younger days that I should be President. If my mother had any such notion she kept it to herself, and the remarks of my father rather indicated he thought if I did not change my ways I would come on the town. He kept up admonitions of that character until I had entered public life. I think his forecast impressed me as being very important."

I asked whether he thinks there is as much opportunity for boys now as when he was a boy.

Better Chances Now

"I think there is a better chance for boys to succeed now than there ever was before," he replied. "Some desire one avenue of success and some another. If a young man wants education and that mental discipline which comes from contact with books and learned men I am sure the opportunity was never so good as it is now. If he wishes to earn money and go into business with the idea of accumulating a competence, there are more avenues open for that purpose than at any previous time. If he is desirous of securing what I think is true success by performing a real service for his fellow men from which the reaction will undoubtedly bring him a place in the estimation of his neighbors and a competence which will represent payment for his effort, I should say again that there are more opportunities than at any other time in history."

"What about the girls?" I asked.

"They can vote and hold office now some of them are beginning to look on politics as a possible career."

About Modern Girls

"If a girl wishes to fit herself for a political career, I think the best thing she can do is get married and bring up a family. I can conceive of no experience better adapted to give either a woman or a man that knowledge which is most likely to be of value to the discharge of public office than that which comes from the family life. I am aware that there have been many excellent executives both men and women who have lived single lives. But I think that they may have worked under a great handicap which perhaps entitles them to a greater credit."

"A successful political career consists of being able to help provide the people with what they need in their relationship with each other. I think that the family life is the cornerstone of our social life and so of our political life. We do not in this country have opportunities which can be referred to as affording a strictly political career. There are many avenues of public life each of which requires for its best execution a special preparation. The national government has ten departments under cabinet officers, each one requiring a special knowledge of its administration. Even our municipal governments have many departments. The only preparation that is worth anything is a course of study which will make one an expert in the department which it is proposed to serve.

Should Have Business

"I doubt if it is possible for a young man to choose politics as a career. He may go into the diplomatic service as it is now constituted in this country, or into the civil service somewhere as the result of passing an examination, but for the young man to expect to gain a livelihood by holding political office would seem to me to be very undesirable. I should say that he ought to have some business on which he could depend for a living and as he has an aptitude for it take such part in politics as he finds he can do without losing his means of livelihood. Otherwise, he loses his independence."

"My own opinion is that as many boys and girls as possible ought to have a college education, whether they intend to follow a professional career or not. I think one of the mistakes lies in thinking that because a boy or girl has a college education he or she must therefore seek a professional career. It is my observation that in large cities the legal profession especially is over-manned, so that many young men are doing a very small practice and receiving a very small compensation. A college education ought to fit a man or woman to be content in any occupation because it enlarges the capacity for the enjoyment of the intellectual and spiritual side of life. It seems to me that a man with a college education and an artisan's income would be almost with an ideal position."

"You made one statement, Mr. President, which I noted particularly," I remarked. "You said that those men and women who have attained distinguished success without being married have worked under a great handicap. I take it to mean that there is no doubt in your mind that marriage is a great contribution to a man's success?"

"How can there be any doubt about it?" he replied. "A man who has the companionship of a lovely and gracious woman enjoys the supreme blessing that life can give. And no citizen of the United States, knows the truth of that statement better than I."

Springfield Meets Des Moines—Maybe

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 22—(AP)—The Des Moines Democrats, champions of the Western baseball league and the Springfield Solons, 3-1 bunt-holders, are ready today for the first game of a championship series. The team that wins the first four games will be awarded the laurels.

Three games will be played here, the clubs going to Springfield Saturday to end the warfare.

Des Moines will be without the services of two regulars, Chalmers Czellar star infielder, who left yesterday to join the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League, and Pitcher Ralph Head.

Art Stokes, right hander, was expected to go to the mound for Des Moines today while Hoots, leading twirler of the Three Eye this year, was the probable choice of Manager McCarthy.

L. J. Wylie, Deatur, Ill., president of the 3-1 League is here to represent his circuit and Joe Christy, Des Moines, has been delegated from the Western League.

Capt. Nathan Hale Went to Gallows Immortal Hero

BY PAUL MARRISON
NEA Service Writer

New York, Sept. 22—Other than the shuffling of the guards and the light steps of the young man who was marching to death, there was no sound. The waiting crowd shivered a little in the early morning air, stood mute, almost breathless.

Tramp, tramp—a few yards more—a halt. A rope dangled, one end tied in a hangman's noose. It swung back and forth, a pendulum telling off the seconds of life.

Somewhere in the crowd a woman sobbed. The tension broken, the sob was taken up in a series of quick little breath-catchings that swept the circle.

Silence again. The noose swung lower, to be caught by the waiting hangman. He made as if to adjust it, but was halted by a motion from the official. It seemed that the condemned had something to say.

His clean-cut face showing little trace of care, the boy-prisoner stood a moment, gazing heavenward. Nearly six feet tall, he stood and looked out over the crowd, his eyes seeing no earthly thing. Then he looked down at the people and spoke his voice strong and clear:

"I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

Silence, broken finally by a growl from William Cunningham, British provost marshal:

"Swing the rebel off!"

Thus, 150 years ago, Sept. 22, 1776, died Nathan Hale, courageous American captain who was destined to become an immortal hero.

CONVENTION UNDER WAY

Mt. Carmel, Ill., Sept. 21—(AP)—The seventy sixth annual Illinois convention of Disciples of Christ, got into full swing today. The Rev. W. P. Rothenberger, Springfield delivered the convention sermon.

The Illinois crusade for Christian education, the increase of the financial resources of Eureka College and other agencies of the denomination was emphasized in addresses by Bert Wilson, president of the College; S. E. Fisher, president of the Illinois Disciples; and H. H. Peter of Bloomington, secretary. The total thus far reached is $645,000. The goal is $1,000,000.

McAdoo Forced Dry Plank in Platform

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 22—(AP)—The William Gibbs McAdoo wing of the democratic party in California, defeated in the preliminary contests of the state convention which opened yesterday, came back to a hard fought victory today, when they forced through a resolution appending a bone dry plank to the party platform.

The dry resolution indorsing the state prohibition enforcement act and condemning efforts to repeal it by initiative at the November election, was carried by 52 to 49 after long and bitter controversy over methods of voting the status of proxies and the merits of the question itself.

The republican post-primary convention also was held here yesterday. It was harmonious throughout. The party platform was unanimously adopted and endorsed President Coolidge, the direct primary and all party nominees.

Women Who Tend Home Fires Want "Quick Fire Coke"

It is a Clean Fuel

"QUICK FIRE COKE" is lighter and cleaner to handle, fewer firings of furnace, less ashes to carry out than with soft coal.

We urge "QUICK FIRE COKE" for all types of furnaces and heating plants in homes, hotels, or office buildings, because of its steady, easily regulated heat, uniform high quality, absolute freedom from dust and dirt, and greater heating value ton for ton than hard or soft coal.

Do not merely say "coke" when ordering. If you wish to be sure of having the highest quality of by-product coke it is possible to make, you should insist upon "QUICK FIRE COKE."

"QUICK FIRE COKE" is more than a trade mark. It is a guarantee of quality, efficiency, and service—a superior fuel that does not deteriorate, nor lose any of its heating value whether stored for long periods in bins or exposed to the weather.

Women who "keep the home-fires burning" will never go back to the use of soft coal, if they burn "QUICK FIRE COKE" through one winter. With "QUICK FIRE COKE," the curtains, draperies, rugs and wall paper will be cleaner at the end of winter than they are with the first few weeks of burning soft coal. Any woman who burns or has burned soft coal knows how damaging it is and what a lot of extra work it makes in scrubbing, dusting, and cleaning from the constant "tracking" of coal dust and ashes from the furnace room over the house. There is no smoke, nor soot, in burning this coke and it is practically free from dust and ashes. The Indiana Coke & Gas Company, Terre Haute, makers of "QUICK FIRE COKE" send an interesting booklet "HOW TO BURN COKE" to any householder on request. Write for it today and learn how you may reduce your coal bills and eliminate smoke and soot damage to your house-furnishings and interior decorations.

SYNOPSIS
It is a rainy night in the war-torn trenches in France. The thoughts of young Private Jimmy Ford, of the 101st New York regiment, are as gloomy as the weather. Among the things that have sustained him through the horror of war are the letters from his sweetheart, Ruth. One of these letters is the cause of his misery, because it tells of the interest Daniel Murtagh, a politician, is paying to her in Jimmy's absence. Anxious to get killed, Jimmy volunteers for an extremely dangerous lone raid. He sneaks toward the German lines—

Jimmy pictured the tidings that would be broken to his mother by telegram from Washington. Miss Ruth, rotting in No Man's Land, North would read it and gasp, and the name of Murtagh would be ashed in her mouth. Yes, martyrdom was his only chance to beat out Murtagh. Ruth would probably go to a convent and pine for him the rest of her life. She'd probably waste away and die young. Young and pretty. She'd make a prettier nun than Sister Agatha, who used to teach him in the sixth grade and on whom all the boys were secretly sweet. Jimmy was crying. Tears that splashed with the raindrops on his grimy hands as he crawled along. Sobs that went through him like chills. They'd miss him at home, all right. He wallowed on the sadness of the scene. "We'll always keep his memory green," they'd say. "Please don't come any more. Mr. Murtagh. I—I want to be alone with my memories—

Thus Ruth.
Jimmy was weeping so bitterly now that he forgot to stop crawling when the very lights lit up No Man's Land. Forged where he was and where he was going—until, in a spell of pitchy darkness, he fell headfirst into a German trench!

That is, he thought it must be a German trench—after the shock of the unexpected drop that jarred him out of the self-satisfying glut of maudlin fancy and back to the deadly reality of the present. Ruth and Cheesie lay there in foot deep water and shivering waited for the horrible crunch of a German bayonet into his bones and flesh.

Continuing to live long beyond the time he expected, he presently took note of his surroundings as these resolved out of the night aided by the flames which patched up a remembrance of moony daylight.

He saw not a soul—nor a Boche. Whereupon he got to his feet and, with bayonet, splitting the thick haze in front, shakily began an investigation. The clammy, chilly night pressed down. Hundreds of miles on either side of him waraged; at any moment a grenade in the face, a bayonet in the bowels, a bullet in the lungs, might—perhaps Mr. Murtagh was visiting Ruth in this very minute, sneaking her up in the top floor parlor on West Twenty-second. No, it was a bit early yet at home. There was the difference in time to think of—a difference with which lovesick soldiers' thoughts seldom reckon. Five hours—or was it six or four? About seven o'clock, there. Jimmy hoped the landlady would forget to light the hall gaslight tonight and that Dan the Dude would fall downstairs and break his neck. "Oh," Ruthie would have said to that wish, "what a terrible thing to wish anyone!" But it did not seem terrible to Jimmy—to a man who spent his days trying to kill other men because they happened to be of a different nationality. The dead and captive Ruthie he had seen had not looked so forlorn—nor any different, really than his own bunch. Hell, there were some of them he'd like to stek. The Top, for instance—the Captain—because they had vaguely become identified with his mental image of Murtagh. Maybe he was getting a bit "balmy," as the

EXPLOSION NEAR SCHOOL
St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 21—(AP)—An explosion in or near the boiler room of the University City high school today threw the 900 pupils into consternation, killed a negro building laborer, injured seven other workmen and one girl pupil, and caused damage of $50,000 to $75,000.
Charles Bank, school superintendent expressed the opinion that illuminating gas leaking from near the boiler room might have been ignited, causing the explosion. He said no steam was in the boilers.

McCASKRIN FILES SUIT
Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 21—(AP)—State Senator James J. Harbour of Chicago, was served with summonses in two suits for $50,000 each, filed by State Representative Harry M. McCaskrin of Rock Island, as the disbarment proceedings against McCaskrin were ended here yesterday afternoon. Senator Harbour was counsel for the Rock Island County Bar Association complainant against McCaskrin. McCaskrin declined to state what his cause for action will be.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Both CHERRY LANE, 18, an unscrupulous flirt, and FAITH LANE, 20, stay-at-home drudge for the family of six, are attracted to BOB HATHAWAY, who, on his first visit to the house, shows plainly that he is immensely intrigued with Cherry's beauty.

That night after Hathaway has left, Cherry slips out for a rendezvous with CHRIS WILEY, to whom her father, JIM LANE, has forbidden the house. He tries to abduct her, she screams, arousing her father and Faith, but tells her father she does not know who her assailant was. To Faith she confesses, and begs Faith not to tell her father and mother. In an effort to make up with Faith, Cherry promises to buy her material for a dress, when she buys herself one. She brings home a pattern that she well knows Faith cannot wear, expecting to get it herself.

Faith starts to tell her mother the truth about the adventure of the night before, but Cherry's frightened pleading stops her. Faith gets a telephone call from JUNIOR, 21, who has been arrested for speeding.

She pawns every trinket she has to get him out of trouble without telling her father, and he promises to pay her back. Cherry tells Faith she has invited CHESTER HART, Faith's former "steady," whom Cherry has vamped away from her sister, to dinner.

He, in turn, has invited GEORGE PRUITT to go to a movie with them, and Pruitt, when introduced to Faith, remarks, incredulously: "Good Lord! I didn't know they grew them like you any more, Miss Lane."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

"I DON'T know what you mean, Mr. Pruitt!" Faith blushed with painful confusion.

George Pruitt did not answer immediately. His eyes were traveling with greedy interest over the fine column of her throat, along the spine down sweep of her shoulders, down the rounded, bare forearms, along her perfectly proportioned full body to her long, slender feet in their Cuban-heeled white canvas shoes.

"Oh, Faith's a corn-fed!" Cherry's thinking laugh rang out. "I tell her she ought to reduce ten pounds. Why, she weighs a hundred and thirty-five!" She told the amateur artist this in naive horror. "I only weigh ninety-five!"

"Reduce! My Lord, would you want to make a flapper out of the Venus de Milo?" George Pruitt demanded. "If you only knew how we fellows have scoured New York for just your type for models, Miss Lane," and he brushed Cherry aside as if she had been a kitten frolicking at his feet. "You'd be able to imagine my surprise at finding you here."

"Oh, George, you old rascal!" Chester Hart slapped his thigh and chuckled with glee. "Some line, that! Gosh, you artist guys can get away with murder!"

"Oh, take a tuck in your mouth!" George Pruitt turned on him wrathfully. "I'm going to paint Miss Lane's picture, if she'll let me. I may have to sell wholesale groceries to make a living, but by golly, I'm not going to pass up a chance to get a model like you. Will you pose for me, Miss Lane?"

Faith glanced at Cherry, saw that the lovely little face was white and pinched with anger and jealousy. "I'm afraid," she said slowly, as if the words came hard, "that I won't have time, Mr. Pruitt. But—thank you—just the same."

Cherry's face bloomed again. With a deep curtsy, she presented herself

"Aunt Hattie, I wish you'd mind your own business!" Cherry scraped her chair back from the table.

to George Pruitt's admiration.

"How would you like me for a model, Mr. Pruitt?"

"Thanks—some time, perhaps," George Pruitt turned away from her almost rudely, and addressed himself to Faith. "I suggested to Chester that we all go to the movies. Would you enjoy that?"

"We're regular movie fans, Mr. Pruitt," Cherry cut in before Faith could answer. "Of course we'll be delighted." "You're coming in my car, aren't you, Miss Lane?" George Pruitt took Faith's elbow as they walked toward the two cars parked at the curb. "Chester'll be jealous, Faith," Cherry called out gaily.

"I hardly think so since he came to call on you," Faith answered quietly, as she stepped into George Pruitt's racy looking roadster.

The next morning Cherry was sulking like a bad child. She had not spoken to Faith since George Pruitt and Chester Hart had taken their leave at eleven-thirty the night before.

"Hello, folks! Here's your old Aunt Hattie, come to spend the day!" The Lane family, breakfasting, chorused feeble, unenthusiastic greetings to the thin, elderly, tight-mouthed little spinster, Mr. Lane's sister, who lived away over on the South Side with "Grandpa and Grandma" Lane.

"How are you, Hattie? How's Ma and Pa?" Mrs. Lane asked in her complaining, sighing voice. "Pretty well, considering," Hattie Lane took the chair which her brother gave up hastily, as if glad to escape. "I declare, Jim, you're lookin' real old. Square up them shoulders o' yours! You ain't dead yet!" Martha, you've put on ten pounds if you've put on an ounce since I seen you last. You're scandalous fat. But you look better'n you have in a con's age. Been taking that Indian Herb medicine I brought you?"

"I ain't better, Hattie," Mrs. Lane's face flushed darkly and her brown eyes snapped angrily. "I don't sleep an hour a night, and the pain in my legs and shoulders is something fierce. Easy for you to talk, Hattie, you strong as a mule. Nobody knows what I go through—"

"Well, if we don't, it ain't because you don't tell us!" Hattie Lane brushed her sister-in-law's complaints aside briskly.

"Faith, pour me a cup of coffee! And if you've got a wee mite of toast left, you might pop it in the oven and warm it up for me. But don't go to no trouble for me. I had my breakfast hours ago—"

Lane, you march right to the bathroom and scrub that paint off your cheeks and lips! The ideal all smeared up like a Indian! I should think you'd be ashamed of yourself. What you're thinkin' of, Martha Lane, to let her poke her head out of the house lookin' like a chorus girl, with them short ballet skirts—"

"Aunt Hattie, I wish you'd mind your own business!" Cherry scraped her chair back from the table and flung her napkin violently into the center of the table.

"Cherry! Remember your Aunt Hattie's a lot older than you! Don't make Mama ashamed of you!" Mrs. Lane chided the girl half-heartedly. "If she was a child o' mine—"

Hattie Lane began heatedly, but Cherry had fled from the room, her cheeks flaming beneath the light of a dusting of mandarin rouge.

Hattie turned her steady bright eyes upon Junior, who ducked, shielding his face with an arm, in mock terror. The lively spinster's face softened, as it always did when her eyes rested upon Jim, Junior. "Ain't no call to act as if I was goin' to slap you, Junior," she grinned wryly at him. "Where in the name of tartarion did you get that necktie? Looks like a egg broke up in a bowl o' beet juice!"

"It's a batik, Aunt Hattie!" Joy giggled. "That Fay Allen that Long's runnin' around with made it for him. You do it with paraffine 'n' paints 'n'—"

"Here's a coddled egg for you, Aunt Hattie, and two nice fresh pieces of toast," said Faith, hurrying in from the kitchen, her face flushed and anxious. Aunt Hattie for a whole day!

"Umm! Only one of the family that's worth the powder and lead it'd take to blow their brains out," and Aunt Hattie looked up at Faith with twinkling eyes.

"I come over to get you to help me cut out my new black and white voile, Faith. I brought you a piece of goods, too. I was doin' a little tradin' at the Banner Store yesterday, when Cherry was buyin' up that flowered stuff for herself. Heard her tell the clerk that you wanted some maize colored chiffon, but she thought you'd like that big figured stuff better. Hunh! I'm up to her tricks! Open that bundle on the sideboard, and see how you like it. That blonded young snip that waited on me said it was maize color all right—"

"Oh, Aunt Hattie!" Tears welled Faith's voice, as she lifted the lovely, soft, yellow material from the wrappings. "It's exactly what I wanted. You're a darling to give it to me!" She flung her arms around the stiff, scrawny little figure and kissed her on a withered cheek.

"Hunh! Guess somebody's got to think of you once in a while! Got a beau to spring it on? Hear that young Hathaway's found out where the Lane family lives. Don't let Cherry walk off with him! I've had my eye on him for you for a month o' Sundays! Now, if you lazy folks have set around this breakfast table long enough, scoot—all of you! Me and Faith's got a pile of work to do today!"

"What's Cherry got her dander up about this time?" Aunt Hattie asked, as she wielded a vigorous dish cloth over an egg plate.

"Chester Hart and George Pruitt were over her last night," Faith answered hesitatingly. She loathed gossiping against Cherry, but it was very hard to hoodwink Aunt Hattie. "Chester had come to see Cherry—"

"Your beau?" Aunt Hattie demanded. "Well, if that don't heat all! And who's this George Pruitt? Not kin to them rich Lincoln Pruitts, is he?"

"Their only son," Faith smiled. "Chester invited him to come and go to the movies with us. I suppose he was feeling pretty mean—about me, you know—and wanted to make it up to me."

"And George Pruitt fell for you, and Cherry's mad enough to bite nails in two," Aunt Hattie chuckled triumphantly. "Well, land o' livin'! I'd give a farm to a-see her face! And here I was grinnin' to myself because I seen you blush when I mentioned Bob Hathaway's name! There you go again! Well! Oh, drat it! There's the doorbell! I'll answer it."

When Aunt Hattie returned to the kitchen, she was carrying in her arms an enormous florist's box, and her eyes were snapping with excitement.

"More flowers for Cherry?" Faith asked, drying her hands. "From Bob Hathaway, I suppose."

"Guess again, young lady!" Aunt Hattie crowed delightedly. "They're for Miss Faith Lane! And from the size of the box, I bet they're them long-stemmed American beauties!"

SHIPPING BOARD TRYING OUT NEW PLAN OPERATION

Outcome Will Determine Feasibility of Continued Service

Washington, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Moves of the Shipping Board and the government agencies associated with shipping during the next few months will do much to reveal the future of the American Merchant Marine.

Two forces are converging to aid in solving the problem and to test, particularly the possibility of returning the merchant fleet to private ownership.

In an effort to attract American capital, the Shipping Board has thrown the United States Lines and the American Merchant Lines on the market, with the requirement that all bids be here at noon, November 8. The Merchant Marine Planning Committee, a group within the Board, has before it the task of holding countrywide hearings to obtain recommendations for a merchant marine policy. The Senate, at the suggestion of Chairman Jones of the Senate Commerce Committee, has requested this information by January 1, next year.

Many Ships Sold

In its campaign to place the various lines under private operation, the Board has in the last year disposed of about 350 vessels. These included the sales of the Pan American liner passenger and mail service between New York and South America to the Munson Steamship Lines, the San Francisco to the Orient service and that between Puget Sound and the Orient to the Dollar interests.

The government is also disposing of its services between United States and South American ports, save the freight services between the Gulf and the Atlantic coast to the east of that continent. The Board has just decided to advertise these, hoping to withdraw entirely from the South American trade.

With the United States Lines and the American Merchant Lines sold, the Shipping Board will find itself divested of all of its "crack" services, but with about a dozen important freight services reaching the major ports of the world, operated through agents.

Tickets Far Ahead

The United States Lines form a branch of the Emergency Fleet Corporation and are operated directly by the government. As an evidence of the permanence in which the Lines have become part of the North Atlantic trade, the Board points to the sale of tickets as far as two years ahead. The service, which includes the liner Leviathan, operates an express passenger and freight service from New York to Europe.

The American Merchant Lines, carrying freight and passengers between American Atlantic and northern European ports, are now operated through an agent, J. H. Winchester & Company, Inc., of New York City.

Will Try Durkin on Second Murder Charge

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Martin Durkin, 24-year-old auto bandit under a 35-year sentence for the murder of a C. Shanahan, federal agent, will be tried Oct. 18 on another murder charge.

He was arraigned today on an indictment charging murder of Harry Gray, police sergeant, slain in a police trap set for Durkin after the Shanahan slaying, which went awry and resulted in the death of Gray and of Lloyd Austin.

Durkin did not know until he was brought to court today that the new move was under way.

Killed 11-Year-Old Son for Staying Out at Night

Herrin, Ills., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Enraged because his 11 year old son, Bradley had been brought home by the police after being out all night, H. B. Burnett today killed him by throwing an old work shoe which dislodged the boy's neck. The father expressed deep remorse at the city jail where he was taken to await action of a coroner's jury.

NEWSPAPERS HAVE ESCAPED WAY TO COMMERCIALISM

Generally Have Remained in Control of Individuals

By Associated Press Special Wire
Chicago—The newspaper is one of the few enterprises of modern life to escape the trend toward industrialization, or the substitution of outside financial control for the personal owner-manager.

Newspapers generally are and have been under the direction of one man or one family, a personal rather than a public enterprise.

A recent series of deaths of powerful newspaper heads, most of them without families to hand down the tradition of individual control, has directed attention toward the possibility that newspapers some day may become public owned enterprises, operating in their field the same as say the U. S. Steel Corporation or General Motors in theirs.

Among recent deaths of leading publishers and editors might be noted those of Victor Lawson of the Chicago Daily News, John C. Eastman of the Chicago Journal, Frank A. Munsey of the New York Sun and W. R. Nelson of the Kansas City Star.

And not far distant occurred the death of "Morse Henry" Watterson of Louisville Courier-Journal, the last of his school of noted personal journalists and winners of a Pulitzer prize for his editorial "To Hell with the Hohenzollerns and the Hapsburgs," just before the World War.

Lawson's Experiment
In the case of some of these newspapers it appeared at one time that industrialization might be accomplished, but all ultimately remained under a personal or limited control.

Mr. Lawson, with only a brother surviving, left the News to a bank as trustee, with authority to dispose of it as it saw fit. Several groups were reputed to have bid for the paper, with intimations of refinancing through public sale of stock and bond issues. That would have been the diversified control of industrialization. The bank, however, did not believe that would have met with the lead publisher's approval. Eventually the paper was sold to Walter A. Strong, the business manager, who had as his financial associates a group of wealthy Chicagoans. These, remaining in the background, insure a continuance of the one man control idea.

Mr. Eastman, also without direct heirs, left his newspaper to a group of his employees, who are continuing the publication under the policies of its founders. The Kansas City Star went to Mr. Nelson's widow and at her death to a daughter, and ultimately, at the daughter's death, to her husband, thus continuing the personal dynasty, although there were a number of outside bidders for the property.

The possible industrialization of the newspaper is touched upon in a recent book, "What's the News," by Harper Leach, and John C. Carroll of the Chicago Tribune.

"Amid all this growing complexity," they write, "power and responsibility—with hazards and competition growing equally intense—the newspaper has remained a primitive capitalistic enterprise."

The leadership of such enterprises still is personal, and even dynastic.

Unlike Large Business
"As yet the newspapers present hardly any instance of democratized absentee ownership and institutionalized management such as the American Telephone and Telegraph company or other great utilities, railroads and industries. There may be several stockholders, but they are all personally acquainted if not bound by close ties. Most of the successful papers are yet in the hands of founders, reorganizers or their descendants. Where management has been delegated to some outsider, his control is of a highly personal nature, not at all similar to that of a railroad or other large business."

The allegiance of the editorial employees is very largely personal—they work for the man, owner or hired managing editor, rather than for the "company". Corporate in form, newspapers are personal in fact, to an unusual degree. Old employees frequently cherish a sentiment for the institution similar to that a man feels for a college or even a church—but the personal loyalties are there too, never absent in fact from a newspaper which is alive and growing.

It is too much to expect that even newspapers long can escape the trend toward industrialization and the substitution of financial control for the personal owner-manager.

Banks Shy From Them
"There are few if any authentic instances to date of newspapers surviving an attempt to institutionalize them. Bankers usually got rid of newspapers thrust on them—realizing in a short time that there was a kind of property in which some of the cherished rules of finance and industrial efficiency would be fatal, if applied to all departments.

For a long time to come any institutionalized newspaper must survive the competition of its personally conducted contemporaries or encounter the competition of newspapers founded by ambitious men. But on the other hand, the costs of publishing are becoming so vast that the older type of ownership and the financing of extensions out of profits will become impossible. Our tax and inheritance laws militate against the perpetuity of personal fortunes large enough to carry such enterprises."

"OPEN HOUSE" AT ROCKFORD NEWS- PAPER SUCCESS

10,000 People Watched Register-Gazette
Force at Work

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 22.—(AP)—"Open house" at the new plant of the Rockford Register-Gazette attracted ten thousand people, demonstrating the public interest there is in the process of "manufacturing" a modern daily newspaper.

During the last six months, the entire building was remodeled; the news and composing rooms moved to the second floor, and all departments were greatly enlarged. New furniture (including uniform flat top desks) was installed throughout; seven new Linotypes placed in the composing room (giving the paper a battery of nine), and other equipment added.

When the work was completed, the Register-Gazette, through its owners—Edgar E. Bartlett, publisher; Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, editor; and Elliott S. Bartlett, business manager—announced plans for the "house-warming" and invited the public to inspect the new plant at that time.

All departments were kept in operation during the hours of the "open house"—from 7 to 9:30 o'clock—and members of the advertising and news staffs acted as guides to escort groups of visitors through the entire building, explaining in detail each step in the process of gathering the material that goes into a modern daily, how it is prepared and finally how it is printed and distributed.

They saw the original typewritten "copy", the methods of editing it, how it is set up in the composing room, the process of stereotyping, and finally they saw the finished product emerge from the press.

Two orchestras played during the two evenings, and the surging crowds seemed to have a thoroughly interesting and enjoyable time. Great masses of beautiful flowers—gifts from the paper's friends—were banked on desks and tables in the various departments. Framed pictures of each of the Register-Gazette's 107 full time employees were placed on the desks where the workers perform their daily tasks.

Old Hammer Guns Bring King George His Grouse

York. —(AP)—King George made his record bag of 12 grouse in one drive at Abbeystead with two pairs of old fashioned doubled barreled hammer guns manufactured thirty odd years ago.

As a young man the King laid the foundation of his reputation as a shot with these guns and still clings to them for sentimental reasons.

An English firm which makes guns for the crowned heads of half the world, has been keeping the King's guns in condition for years. At the end of each shooting season, the guns are sent to the factory, stripped, cleaned, overhauled, given an oil bath and put in storage until the next year.

Life first appeared on the earth during the cozo period, second of the six geological periods.

Plato's "Sure Cure" for Steady Hiccoughs

London.—(AP)—Plato had a "sure cure" for hiccups, as described by Dr. C. F. T. East in the Lancet.

Aristophanes, so Plato says, had the hiccups so badly he could not speak. So Eryximachus, the physician, was called in.

"Hold your breath, and, if after doing this for some time, your hiccup is no better, gargle with a little water. If it still continues, tie a your nose with something and sneeze. After you have sneezed once or twice, the most violent hiccup is sure to go," the doctor prescribed.

Aristophanes was cured after he reached the sneezing stage.

MOLINER SUICIDED

Moline, Ill., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Dependent because he had lost $7,000, his life savings through a bank failure in Norway, William Asplund today walked to a down town park, partly hid himself behind a newspaper and then shot himself to death. Asplund was fifty eight years old and had hoped to retire when he was sixty.

HOTEL-BERKSHIRE

Convenience, Comfort and Economy

$2.50 For a room with private Bath—over eighty percent of our rooms are quoted at this price—in fact we guarantee a $2.50 room for you at any time. Other Chicago hotels advertise $2.50 rooms—we guarantee to deliver.

The Berkshire is one of Chicago's newest and most beautifully appointed hotels. It is located on the popular near north side, just five minutes' walk, or a short ride on either surface line or bus from the "loop", theatres, Lake Michigan, Lincoln Park and other interesting places about the city. You will also like the "Little English Cafe."

Experience gained through operating ten other hotels enables us to offer unusual rates. All that I ask is an opportunity to show our hotel. Let me know when.

Wall Paper

The Finishing Touch

The fire burns and casts its glow on a room perfectly planned. Correct in every detail . . . the walls harmonize subtly with the color scheme. They are not obtrusive, yet they just fit in, they complete the general scheme of decoration.

That is as it should be. If you are refurnishing, you should leave no detail neglected—repaper your home now—We will help you in the choice of the proper Wall Paper.
